Date of Application, 15th Nov., 1902

Complete Specification Left, 28th July, 1903—Accepted, 10th Sept., 1903

PROVISIONAL SPECIFICATION.

“Improvements in or relating to Liniments or Embrocations.”

I, EDWARD SMITH., of The Kennels, Quorn, in the County of Leicester, Stud Groom, do hereby declare the nature of this said invention to be as follows:—

5 This invention relates to improvements in liniments or embrocations suitable for animal use, and consists in compounding a liniment which is a simple and efficacious remedy, and one easily applied to the affected part.

The liniment consists of the following ingredients mixed in preferably equal proportions or nearly so; oil of amber, oil of riganum (thyme), spirits of sal ammoniac, spirits of hartshorn and spirits of wine, well shaken together.

10 The compound is intended to be used in cases of enlargements, strains and sprains, and other like ailments peculiar to animals, and requiring outward attention principally.

Dated this 12th day of December 1902.

COMPLETE SPECIFICATION.

“Improvements in or relating to Liniments or Embrocations.”

I, EDWARD SMITH., of The Kennels, Quorn, in the County of Leicester, Stud Groom, do hereby declare the nature of this said invention and in what 20 manner the same is to be performed to be particularly described and ascertained in and by the following statement:—

This invention relates to improvements in liniments or embrocations suitable for animal use, and consists in compounding a liniment which is a simple and efficacious remedy, and one easily applied to the affected part.

25 The liniment consists of the following ingredients mixed in preferably equal proportions, or nearly so, by measure:—

Oil of amber, oil of riganum (thyme), spirits of sal ammoniac, spirits of hartshorn, and spirits of wine, well shaken together.

The ingredients may be added to one another in any order.

30 The compound is intended to be used in cases of enlargements, strains, and sprains, and other like ailments peculiar to animals and requiring outward attention principally.

35 Having now particularly described and ascertained the nature of this said invention and in what manner the same is to be performed I declare that what I claim is:—

A liniment or embrocation consisting of oil of amber, oil of riganum, spirits
